DEFEAT OF THE ADMINISTRATION

The nomination of Governor Cox of Ohio, regardless of the result of the election in November, marks the passing of authority as signified by the Wilson administration and brings the final issue directly before the people. With Harding and Cox, backed by the two leading parties, the contest will be interesting and clean, from a partisan point of view. Never in history has there been a stronger analogy than what is being played in the parallel lines of Harding and Cox. President against President. Editor against Editor. Publisher against Publisher. Governor against Governor. Statesman against Statesman. Cox, who was defeated in 1912, is now a majority of 100,000. Here the times change. Cox remained in a good field where he could not have been defeated when he came up for a second term, and he was not until 1916 that he regained his mastery of affairs in Ohio. In the meantime Harding was making history in the United States while dealing with world affairs engaged in discharging the monarchical responsibilities of the Wilson administration. While Cox is the candidate of the anti-Wilson faction of the Democracy, he will have the support of the Democracy which has at most destroyed the republic. While favoring the wearing of republic in Europe, Wilson has been blind to the dismemberment of the republic here. George Washington and for this ruthless policy the Democratic nominee cannot shirk responsibility.

Senator Harding possesses not those vital qualities of mind and heart necessary today and in the time just ahead. His poise of mind, his soundness of judgment, his hold on fundamentals, his appreciation of the needs of today and of tomorrow, his love of the people from whom he came and of whom he is one, and his faith in them, his magnificent grasp of large affairs, his great native ability and his freedom of statesmanship, his regard for the opinion of others, his experience and success in the handling of men, his proper appreciation of his country's position as a responsible factor in the world's future, but with the fullest realization of the absolute importance of our own supremacy, his sterling Americanism, his righteous character and manhood, and with his thorough homeliness all qualify him in the most exceptional degree for the tremendous responsibilities which will soon be his. He will make a splendid candidate and a great president. The country will love him, honor him, trust him and follow him, just as all who know him love and trust him and the world will honor him.

ANNE MARTIN'S INDEPENDENCE.

There cannot be any doubt about the independence of Anne Martin and that it should be otherwise. Any party permitting Anne to expose its principles would lose its membership and be numbered with the has-beens. Anne Martin and party affiliation are two distinct types, as opposite as the poles. Nobody would have it otherwise for no one wishes to assume responsibility for the blunders and sins that have made Anne notorious. The mere fact that she stands for the release of all radicals is enough for the country to stomach without having to listen to the threadbare theories of humanity and sympathy that have become her stock in trade. Miss Martin is independent for the reason that she is beyond control of any organization save that of self. This is saying a good deal when it is understood that Anne prefers to be the perennial thorn in the side of Nevada politics than the chosen candidate of any party. The assumption of candidacy carries with it the suspicion that it is lucrative for the female exponent of suffrage in Nevada appears regularly at every election in a most irregular way, apparently with the sole thought of diverting a few votes from the cause which has consistently refused her recognition. It is unfortunate that Nevada has become the home of such a pest but the state cannot be blamed for the biennial affliction. If the voters would go about their balloting without paying any attention to the presence of Anne there would be an easy way found for taking the pleasure out of her life. It is the joy of posing that Anne is after for none know better than she the vast gulf that intervenes between her pretensions and the goal for which she claims to be steering.

WHINING ABOUT POVERTY.

Various forms of paresis are said to have seized members of the Wilson family but the latest is one that entitles the speaker early admission to the nearest home for the feeble minded. In an interview slobbering with all the drivel of the Democratic convention Mrs. McAdoo is reported to have placed herself on the plane of the poor little working girl of the film world in a statement to the effect that she told her husband not to refuse the nomination on her account. It had been previously set forth that the Crown Prince was almost as poor as his Teutonic prototype and could not afford more than eight or ten cars in his private garage. This crying poverty induced him to withhold his name from the list of candidates because of his wife and little children, one a girl of five and the other, a baby of two months. When this viewpoint was explained to the brave wife she is credited with replying "Don't refuse because of me and my children because I can earn my living, if need be. My father had me educated to be self supporting and I can take care of myself and babies any day." What Tommyrot to place before a sane American people to help along the nomination. The widow of a man earning $50,000 a year from a single retainer in the movie picture world, a man who is credited with clearing $5,000,000 from building the New York tube system and a husband who is credited with carrying some of the heaviest life insurance policies in the world. This sort of "Bertha, the Poor Sewing Girl" sob stuff cannot be put across in a presidential campaign. The difference of McAdoo in affecting not to know anything about his candidacy and sleeping two hours later than usual after the night when the first ballots were taken is presuming too much on the credulity of the average voter, who will not stand for that kind of bull.

NEVER AGAIN.

Tonopah did not respond very ardently to the absent treatment administered yesterday by citizens who conceived the great idea of having a Fourth of July without any celebration excluding even the reading of the Declaration of Independence without which the very best village never passes up the anniversary. For some unexplained reason the committee which was supposed to be arranging for a regular old time celebration concluded to restrict their efforts to entertaining the kiddies and their mothers who could not escape from town during the double holidays. So far so good. It was a good idea to see that the kiddies got something out of the day but the enjoyment of the little ones only whetted the appetite of the grown-ups for the festivities that were denied them. "I wish I was at work" was the remark of more than one miner who found no way of killing time. The man with a car found relief in change of scene but the thousands of stay-at-homes were stupefied with the absolute stagnation of the camp. The lesson will prove wholesome for, as one business man remarked, "This means that I and a whole lot more business men will get out next year and every other year to see that this spectacle of having a holiday without any holiday trimmings never occurs in Tonopah again."

Belan says he will not be the candidate of a third party. No, he is too busy being the party of the first part.

ZINC MINING FRAUD ALLEGED

SUN VALLEY July 4. Joseph A. Belan, president of the Southwest Zinc Lead and Mining Company, said Fred W. Saurburt, a broker, was indicted yesterday on charges of promoting an alleged fraudulent mining company. Both were admitted to jail.

Officials said Belan bought 200 acres of land in Missouri including lead mine which had been worked in 1917-18 was days Assistant District Attorney Kilroe said. Belan then formed a company capitalized at $1,000,000 and sold $150,000 worth of stock.

Marcelo Kelly, whose testimony caused the indictments, was recently arrested himself for selling the company stock. She was released when she proved she herself had put up $11,000.

"Merry Andrew."
 It was first applied to Andrew Borda, physician to Henry VIII. He was very learned and very eccentric, and in order to instruct the people he used to address them at fairs and other crowded places. Those who imitated his wit and droll tricks, though not possessing his genius, were called Merry Andrews.
